General Philosophy of the School

The curriculum should be functional and should be organized around the needs of the learner, enabling him to make the most of his abilities. The whole child should be developed; his fears allayed; his confidence increased; his ability to lead developed. He should be helped to take his place in the group, in the home, and in the community. He should be taught to speak up and express his own ideas, to know how to work with others, and to be a good citizen of his school, his community, his state, and his country. In the developing of these "musts", subject matter should be a tool but not the end product alone.

High School

The philosophy of Mather High School is written on the premise that: (1) each student is an individual whose inherent dignity demands the development of his potentialities and the acceptance of his responsibilities; (2) the school is an integral part of our democratic society, in which the student learns responsible adjustments and wholesome personal relationships through a variety of purposeful experiences; (3) learning involves not only the acquisition of facts, but the ability to reason from them to valid conclusions and with dignity to apply them through labor towards a meaningful life.

Objectives

1. To develop an appreciation and an awareness of the cultural aspects of society.
2. To develop social awareness and competence which will allow the student to take his place as an effective member of society.
3. To educate people to be intelligent consumers of the services of business.
4. To provide for basic vocational training.
5. To provide a healthful environment for the school community.
6. To provide basic facts of physical and mental health and encourage their application to family and community.
7. To provide meaningful and functional facts, concepts, and principles which will enable the individual to adjust to the ever-changing environment.
8. To assist in the development, adjustment, and integration of the student's personality.
9. To help the individual discover and develop his interest areas so as to provide proper use of leisure time and proper selection of a career.
10. To create in all pupils a true appreciation and proper sense of the responsibilities inherent in United States citizenship.

We, the Torch staff, dedicate the 1972 yearbook to Mr. Vernon Constantineau. He has taught in the business department for nine years and has been the yearbook advisor for seven years. Mr. Constantineau has given much help to the students of Mather both in class and out of class. We thank you, Mr. Constantineau, for all the time and trouble you have taken for us. Good luck in your future teaching years.

Karen Perry and Mary Kay Fassbender leave their thumbs to any deformed junior.

Patti Carberry leaves the title of Yearbook Editor and the work that goes with it to any junior who has the capability and the dedication.

We, the Senior Class, leave the senior homeroom to the juniors.

We, the Seniors, leave to all the underclassmen the long years of waiting for that short senior year.

We, THE SENIORS, being of sound body and mind, hereby declare this to be our last will and testament.

Senior Class Prophecy

We have recently returned from an around-the-world trip during which we tried to locate some of our former classmates. Here are a few of the experiences we had.

The year was 1982. We were in New York with a few hours wait for a plane. Walking down Fifth Avenue, we saw the famous Ouellette Opera House. The names in lights in front were Jeannine Passinault and Michelle Gunning with co-stars Cheryl McNally, Denise LaMont, and Jo Dee Wapnick. Going further, we saw a fashion boutique owned by Jo Anne Ambrose. Modeling for her were Gayle O'Boyle, Karen Perry, and Jana Rucan. Reading an advertising board, we learned that the women's basketball championships were being held in New York's Madison Square Garden that night. Playing were none other than forward Dan McNam, guard Dan McNelly, John Jay, and Mark LaFave, and center Bill LaFave. From a little bit of gossip, we heard that Dick Cromell, being an optimist, moved to New York after having heard the statement that 12 1/2 percent of our presidents and 25 percent of our vice-presidents come from that state.

The next stop was Chicago. Having further wait, we decided to see Chicago - this time by car. Stopping at the nearest car dealers, we found it run by none other than Mike Pivelski. What was he doing? Why, selling Saabs, of course! Working for him as salesmen and saleswomen were Bob Schweyen, Debbie Daniels, and Jeff Cyrus and as mechanics were Tom Radloff and Mike Aken. Driving around, we ran out of gas. The nearest gas station was Jack's Sixty Six, owned and operated by Jack Nelson. The attendants were Mike Cox, Sally McCoy, Bob McCormick, and Terry Roberts. While waiting for gas, we decided to pick up some groceries. Competing side by side in the grocery market business were Mike's Miracle Mart owned and operated by Gary and another store owned and operated by Dave Tromby. Walking in the aisles, we met classmates Lynn McPherson, Sandy Pihlainen, and Sue Schertz - happy housewives.

Back on the plane, we were forced to make an emergency landing at Dallas, Texas, for gas. It seems that the authorities forgot to gas up the plane while in Chicago. Who was in charge of gas in Chicago? Why, Ted Gerold and Dennis Duggo, of course! The plane pilot is Merle Karr, and his copilot was Ron Semelane. Showing their skills as stewardesses were Chris Boucher, Carolyn Fleck, and Nancy Beauparland. In the radio tower were Don Hase and Ron Rowe.

Landing in Venezuela, we were met by John St. Amour, Larry McPherson, Dale Kinnon, John Severson, John Hancock, and David Gage, all members of the Peace Corp in Venezuela. Oh yes, Marianne Heyrman came a few minutes later. We were told that Cheri Elva was the office manager of the Peace Corp office here, coming to the hotel in a taxi, driven by Mike Nolan and owned by Tom Line. We passed an airfield jointly owned and operated by Debi Mazzali and Randy Johnson.

Arriving at the hotel, we were met by the manager, who by chance happened to be Mike Kettman. He suggested that our entertainment go attend a party that evening given by former classmate, Steve Negilski. We arrived in a car rented from Rivard's Rent-A-Ride. As we walked in the door, we heard the sounds of the world-famous "Gyroscopes" who were in town. Playing in the band were Charley Pihlson and John Fly. Vocalists were Ann Brisson, Joan Boyak, and Janice Anderson.

The next morning we were back on the plane. The next stop was Tokyo, Japan. We heard of an exhibition of Karate to be given that night by Chuck Phillipson. Carmen Louis and Tim Graves were helping with the exhibition and a centennial fell into an accident by a station. A young lady by the name of Kris Vinkas's foot, who was taken to a hospital. A medical driver Dave Joverman and Don Hasey were assisted by nurse Joan Kinn. Nurses at the hospital were Melba Chabry, Denise Brunette, Linda Fry, and Karen O'H. The doctor on duty was Kris Davidson. While waiting in the hospital lobby, we read a Tokyo paper edited by Gary Kinnison. Reporters for the paper were Cheryl Drumsta and Don and Ron Kinnunen.

The plane left on schedule; this time for London, England. We found that Patti Carberry was the manager of a very famous boarding school for orphans. Teachers at the school were Lora Hulsizer, Sandy Oas, and Pamela Wachter. While in London, we also saw one of the many Bartell Telephone Company offices. The manager of the London branch was Cheri Cowell. Among the more than 500 operators were Imogene Johnson, Debbie Woodaz, and Melody Stewart.

Watching international TV, we saw Sue Pond's News Commentary. We learned that Pam Eggengerger was the first lady on the moon. With her in the space capsule were Durea Monette, Kathy Paananen, Denise Murray, and Becky Kee. These five young women accomplished a first - the females to space walk.

Arriving back in the United States, we landed in Los Angeles, California. There was a demonstration at the airport for Women's Lib led by the capable Sue Carr. Taking part in the demonstration were Julie Steinhoff, Betsy Tidd, Ruth Watson, Patti Moote, and Roxanne Belfry. We left for Hollywood a short time later. While in Hollywood, guess who we met? Of course, famous movie stars Robin McNally, Mary Sue Scholtes, Alice Shaffstall, and Debbie Shelly. Movie stunt men were Paul Goings, Frank Livermore, and Pat Kjellin. Gossip column writers were Jan Lehigh, Pat Rukkila, and Carol Broda.

After an enjoyable week of relaxation, we left the land of sunshine and headed back home. After a couple of days of shopping in Detroit, we left and headed north to the good ol' Upper Peninsula. We stopped at the Mackinac Bridge to pay the toll charges. The toll collectors were Mary Kay Fassbender and Deb Benam.

Back in the U. P., we stopped at McMillan, the hub of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, at Carol Douglas's famous Freeway Truck Stop. The chief chef was Cara Barrow, and the very efficient waitresses were Sue Carl, Teri Veen, and Kathy Murk.

We had a pleasant trip and we sincerely hope that you enjoyed reading about it.

Lisa, I was a fellow troublemaker. I remembered
 all the times we've had climbing out your roof and met the big chicken's scared of falling. Remembered the P.B. stunts we used to do? And how I got up on the raft? We'll probably let the whole world know about it in a few years but for now ~~let's~~ let's keep it a secret. Among other things.
 And remember who got up and I'm together the 2nd time!
